

Corona –A Chinese Traitor*Dr.Surekha Sharma

Principal (M.A., M.Ed. Phd.)

Sheiladevi B.Ed College, Wadi, Nagpur

A global pandemic of COVID-19 has left the entire world globe stubborn.

Why pandemic?

- Any prevalent (of a disease) over a whole country or the world.

Finding its roots back the novel corona virus takes us to its origin, the epicenter Wuhan [institute of virology] where this virus initially brought its terror. China, is certainly considered as one of the biggest cause of all the harms to human civilization throughout the continents due to coronas widespread.

So, is when coming back to own, India has also being one of the best contender in the face off with the deadly virus till date. Corona out break as seen has brought a list of harness to entire human race in the nation. Several policies implemented, mass strictness brought, millions quarantined, but the spread didn't put breaks nowhere. Entire population except for the warriors of the war zone were locked into the residence. But when the needs find the greed brings carelessness in he frontier, so gives the opportunist virus find a host and is honored with the throne of deadly symptoms.

Sciences as far as for the medicines is considered is right now answerless. The traitor has not only flabbergasted the medical arena but also has put a devastating impact on psychological and mental care of nation and its people.

As far as the adulthood is considered, quit acceptable but once thinking about the youth and children brings a great reason of worry.

What next?

The Great tragedy has left each and every institution with a same question, what next? Fear of the outbreak and frustration of locked in is the biggest worry of the hour. Education, being the biggest religion what is followed in entire country is left caught in shades of dark. Online!!! But buffering waste of time.

Switching into a new modes of education i.e. through online modes, features to be a modern day style statement, but is it really working, can an inch of screen bring the entire sootiness of classroom with it, when one thinks about, Gets answer no!

No matter being the citizen feeling ashamed for India to call still a developing country, but it is good that still my nation is left with several resources implemented. But resources and features away, the distance between a teacher and student can be a biggest interrogation for a few times coming up.

Distance/Online Learning: COVID-19 Impact*1) June 2020 Update for Current College Students

Among current college students (undergrad) who were enrolled at 4-year institutions before March 1 and COVID-19:

49% indicated their family's financial situation had been affected by COVID-19

- 41% of college students indicate their opinion of their current school has worsened after the COVID-19 outbreak
- 26% indicate their institution's communication with them about the pandemic has been fair to poor
- 67% feel their opinion of their current institution has worsened due to the level of communication about the pandemic
- 37% indicate they feel their institution's handling of the pandemic is poor to fair
- 97% of college students have switched to online instruction
- 63% indicate the online instruction received is worse, compared to in-person instruction
- 31% indicate it's about the same
- 5% feel it's better

- 62% indicate they are highly likely to attend the same school next term

2) June 2020 Update for High School Grads Considering College

Parents ranked quality of remote instruction students were presently receiving as 5.6 out of 10.

Concerns included:

- Poor content
- Little collaborative learning
- Inconsistent instruction
- Little to no access to professors and teaching assistants
- Poor instructor preparation
- Limited technical knowledge by professors

Among high school seniors who were intending to enroll in a 4-year institution in Fall 2020 before March 1 and COVID-19:

- ❖ 11% had decided they were no longer planning to enroll in college for Fall 2020
- ❖ 8% indicated their change in plans was due to the COVID-19 pandemic
- ❖ 3% indicated their change in plans was due to other reasons
- ❖ 53% indicated their family's financial situation had been affected because of COVID-19
- ❖ 44% were unlikely to change their minds about which college they would attend
- ❖ 24% indicated they were likely to change their minds about what college to attend because of COVID-19
- ❖ Among undecided high school seniors unsure of which school they would attend:
  - ❖ 28% indicated COVID-19 was not influencing their college choice
  - ❖ 34% indicated COVID 19 was influencing their college choice

- ❖ 40% of high school seniors who have decided on an institution for Fall 2020 indicate they are not receiving adequate information about how COVID-19 will affect enrollments

Featuring Technosavy India.

Affirming own self with, a great understanding of the pandemic and complication we all will have to get adopted to the need of hour. If switching to online mode brings a relief to the graph of the terror, so we will have to be optimistic, will kill all the devils of the heart and will let adapt the mind and the soul with a belief that, the sun is still behind the clouds shining. The wait is of the clouds to fly away.

“Patience is well privileged, Rather than being a patient unprivileged”

References

- 1) www.google.com
- 2) educationdata.org
- 3) online-education-statistics
- 4) www.wikipidea.in